

GGTL Laboratories Switzerland (Geneva)

GGTL Laboratories is an independent gemmological laboratory that combines cutting-edge technology and expertise to serve the gem market and scientific research. To join our team based in Geneva (Switzerland), we are looking for a diamond grader (100%-time work contract).

Are you looking for experience in a human-sized organisation? Are you careful, meticulous and known for your precision, discretion, rigour and ethics?

The mission

Your main task will be to analyse "melee" diamonds intended for the luxury watchmaking market. You will apply the 4C's to these small-diameter gems and guarantee the quality required by our customers.

Your responsibilities

- To guarantee production that complies with quality and quantity standards in the certification of gems for our customers, in compliance with the protocols in place.
- Supporting the department manager by acting as an intermediary between administration and customers.

Your profile

- Diploma in gemmology D.G.A. or G.G. or H.R.D. with minimum experience and references required.
- A willingness to work on repetitive tasks and high-yield production.
- Careful, meticulous and structured, you handle small goods with precision and control.
- Good management of variable production flows, you remain even-tempered in periods of high output (stress management).
- You have a high sense of probity and integrity. Absolute discretion is required.
- Autonomous and thoughtful, you know how to deliver impeccable, efficient work.
- Computer skills (Office) and ability to adapt to the use of new programmes.
- Fluency in French required, English welcome.

Do you have excellent interpersonal skills and are a team player? You treat customer goods with care and integrity! Send us your application by email.

European citizens only.
